

Marquee Madness: Donny the Doorman presents

PREVIEWS: The source of this story is the authors own experience as a movie theater doorman for General Cinema in the 1980s and his subsequent screenplay and picture book. Readers might be surprised to learn that this is a true story. Yes, there really was a three-storied marquee sign out by the highway... a rusting giant. And yes, I risked my life climbing that sucker on many rainy nights. On the first night, when it snowed, I didnt have a jacket! Late 1980s pre-digital signage; plastic letters and reaching poles. Truly a theater of the absurd, this doing the sign must have entertained commuters for miles around. Even the airplanes were real. All for $3.35 an hour. If only my parents knew...
